

Alberta regulations, referred to as delegated or subordinate legislation, exist under governing statutes. Regulations must be filed with the Registrar of Regulations and be published in the Alberta Gazette, part II from Alberta Queen's Printer. A few regulations are exempt from publication. The Alberta Gazette, part II is available in print or electronically (from 1995 to the present) on the Queen's Printer website.

Alberta regulations are cited as "Alta." (Alberta abbreviated), "Reg." (Regulation abbreviated) and a sequential number plus year. Alta. Reg. 339/91 is the 339th regulation gazetted in 1991 and is found in the 1991 annual volume. Since 2000, the year is given in full, e.g. Alta. Reg. 222/2003.

Index to regulations

Each annual volume of the Alberta Gazette, part II includes an index with the regulations organized under the title of the governing statute, including all the amendments made to the regulation. A cumulative index of regulations for the current year only is included at the back of each print issue.

Westlaw Canada LawSource, LexisNexis Quicklaw and QPSource Professional include updated and searchable consolidated Alberta regulations in their collections. Check the currency information in each source for the date of the last update.

updating

Regulations are in force on the date they are filed with the Registrar of Regulations, unless another date is specified in the regulation. The filing date is included under the title.

Index of regulations

The Index gives the citation for the original regulation and lists any amendments to it. Information on regulations repealed during that year is included. All regulations in force as of 31 December are included in the annual index for that year. Current year amendments are included in the cumulative index found at the back of each issue.
