

Federal public statutes exist in revisions, the latest being Revised Statutes of Canada, 1985 (R.S.C. 1985), in annual volumes of the statutes and in Canada Gazette, part III. Federal statute research may be conducted either electronically or in print, one source often mirroring the other. For a basic introduction to the framework under which statutes are enacted and updated, see A quick guide to researching Canadian statutes : the Canadian Abridgment. Thomson Carswell, 2006 (KF 240 Q52 2006).

Statutes are cited by the short title, in italics, followed by, for example, R.S.C. 1985 or R.S.C. 1985 (1st Supp.) or S.C. 2006. The statutes in the original eight volumes of R.S.C. 1985 are cited by the assigned alpha-numeric chapter number, e.g. R.S.C. 1985, c. A-6. Subsequent statutes are cited by the year and a numerical chapter number, e.g. S.C. 2005, c. 33.

For more information on citing federal statutes, please refer to the Canadian guide to uniform legal citation. 7th ed. Carswell, 2010 (KF 245 C36 2010).

Table of public statutes and responsible ministers

This is an alphabetical table of federal statutes by name. It covers all statutes since the R.S.C. 1985 revision as well as certain statutes which predate the revision. The Table can be used to verify the correct titles and chapter numbers. It is available in print in the orange pages in the Statutes of Canada volumes, and also as a separate publication which is updated three times per year. In addition, it is available online in HTML and PDF versions, which are updated regularly.

Justice Laws Web Site

The consolidated statutes are searchable by keyword in the title or by keyword(s) or phrase in the text of the statute. This website also allows you to browse the statutes by title. Effective June 1, 2009, consolidated Acts and regulations posted on the Justice Laws Web Site are official.

Canada Gazette, part III

The most recent statutes are published in the Canada gazette, part III. They are then republished in the annual volumes of the Statutes of Canada. The Gazette, part III is available in both print and electronic formats.

The subscription services of Westlaw Canada LawSource and LexisNexis Quicklaw include updated and searchable consolidated federal legislation in their collections.

New statutes and amendments to existing statutes are introduced as bills in Parliament and may come into force when they receive Royal Assent. Alternatively, there may be a “coming into force” provision which specifies a date when the statute is in force, or the statute may come into force on a date set by Order of the Governor in Council (by proclamation). Once in force, existing statutes may be repealed by Parliament.

history

Revised Statutes of Canada, 1985

The TABLE OF THE HISTORY AND DISPOSAL OF ACTS facilitates research on the history of a statute and its particular sections. Also, at the end of sections of a revised or consolidated statute is a historical footnote that states the source of this section in the previous revision or later new statute and includes any subsequent amendments. To trace a revised statute further, check the historical footnote for the section in the previous revision; continue to follow the sections backwards to identify the original section.
